There has been talk about how to reach out to more foster homes, especially among the volunteers who manage our rescue flock, and/or who feel deeply vested in Mickaboo's goals of rescuing birds and placing them in forever homes. We are happy to announce we are formalizing procedures to add new adopters, fosters, and volunteers to the Discuss list as they become approved.

With that, here is a short reminder of the guidelines for using the Discuss list.

What "Discuss" is for:

- Asking questions or seeking help on bird care
- Matching volunteers with opportunities
- Finding foster homes for birds
- Sharing bird care knowledge and tips
- Posting helpful links and resources. (Birdie jokes and anecdotes are also welcome!)

What "Discuss" is not for:

- Insults, bullying, or offensive behavior: Interact respectfully.
- Veterinarian evaluations or criticism: Do not discuss or critique veterinarians.
- Lengthy posts: Refrain from sharing long articles (use links instead!), or lengthy personal opinions.
- Unrelated topics: Please keep discussions focused on avian care and welfare. Topics outside this scope are not appropriate for this forum.

Violations of these guidelines may lead to temporary or permanent suspension from Discuss, depending on the circumstances.

We want our community to find Discuss convenient to use, reliable, and trustworthy. By keeping these guidelines in mind, we can all help to ensure Discuss is a welcoming and helpful resource.

Thank you,

Pamela Lee, on behalf of the senior leadership team

So we see to not have an issue with this as long as OT:off topic was made clear in the headline/RE as long as it wasn't a bad post or happens not all the time.
Is that still not okay? Sorry if I broke the rules... 😊

Ugh sorry for all the auto correct and this not entirely making sense...autocorrect or autofill changed stuff when I sent this!
The first sentence should have said -so we used to not have an issue...

Let's keep it simple for now and stay on topic with the birds. That's what we're all here for, after all.
Thanks,
Pam
